Heechee Rendezvous Heechee Saga 3: Frederik Pohl ...

Heechee Rendezvous is a science fiction novel by the American writer Frederik Pohl, published in 1984 by the Del Rey imprint of Ballantine Books. It is a sequel to Gateway and Beyond the Blue Event Horizon and is set about three decades after Gateway. It has been cataloged as the third book in a six-book series called Heechee or The Heechee Saga but Kirkus reviewed it as completing a trilogy and a German-language edition of the three books was published as the Gateway trilogy after all six were

Heechee Rendezvous is a gripping continuation of Pohl's Heechee Saga. Once again, Robinette

Broadhead returns as the main character, this time within a world that suffers from strife; from frequent terrorist activities, to mass hunger, the world is detailed as flawed, in light of the advancements made possible by the technology of the Heechee.

Heechee Rendezvous book by Frederik Pohl
The Heechee is portrayed as an advanced star-traveling race which explored the Milky Way Galaxy including the Earth's solar system many years ago and then disappeared even before the evolution of the genus Homo. Frederik Pohl introduced the Heechee Saga in the 1972 novel, "The Merchant of Venus" (commonly called as The Merchant of Venus Underground".

Heechee - Book Series In Order
The Heechee do not appear until book three in the series, in which the reason for their absence is explained. Some 500,000 years earlier, the Heechee were active in exploring the galaxy, including an Australopithecine-inhabited Earth (where a sampling of the creatures were extracted and left to propagate to modern time on a Heechee station).

Heechee Rendezvous: Pohl, Frederik: Amazon.com.au: Books

While Pohl's Heechee Rendezvous is ostensibly about humanity making first contact with the mysterious alien Heechee, the author spends a lot more time and energy describing the relationship between the main character, eccentric millionaire Robin Broadhead, and his AI servant nicknamed "Albert Einstein".
